1. In early June an airfield built during the Japanese occupation at Hutungshan (孤洞山), five miles southeast of Kalgan, was under the command of Soviet Air Force (SAF) officer Barovsan, commander of the Soviet 19 Air Regiment in the Soviet Maritime Territory. A number of planes of Soviet manufacture, including jets, were at this field. A number of hangers at the base of a nearby mountain are connected with the airfield's two runways by taxi strips. Approximately 500 (sic) caves are being dug into the base of this mountain. Radar, weather stations, and repair shops are in operation at this field.
2. On 24 July a number of Chinese Communist troops made practice parachute jumps in the K'aifeng area from one IL-12, which made one flight from K'aifeng Airfield and remained in the air for 29 minutes.
3. On 25 July Chinese Communist Air Force (CCAF) activities were as follows:
 - a. Training missions: 22 fighters and 43 bombers in two flights from Shanghai, 4 YAK-17's from Yangts'un, and 30 MIG-15's from Tsingtao, the latter returning on 26 July.
 - b. At 6:41 a.m. one PO-2 left Yangts'un for T'angshan and returned to Yangts'un on the same morning.
 - c. At 7 a.m. 2 YAK-18's left Shihchiachuang for Yangts'un.
4. On 25 July SAF training missions from Anshan were as follows:
 - a. Twenty MIG-15's with Ch'iu-k'o-ying as flight leader to Kaip'ing (122-22, 40-24), P'an-shan (122-02, 41-12), and back to Anshan.
 - b. During the morning two LA-11's with Yek-fei-mao-fu as flight leader to Antung and back to Anshan.
